

Infinity Universe - New Tech Demo Video Released

Space Sim News

Posted by : w0dk4

Posted on : 2010/5/4 17:30:00

InfinityAdmin, the main developer behind Infinity: The Quest for Earth, released a new tech video last weekend showing the terrain, asteroid belt and galaxy generator prototypes all merged together in the game client.

InfinityAdmin:

Quote:

It's been many years since the release of the last video showcasing the seamless planetary engine, so I'm happy to release this new video. This is actually a video of the game client, but since there's little gameplay in it, I decided to label it as a "tech demo". It demonstrates an Earth-like planet with a ring, seamless transitions, a little spaceship ( the "Hornet" for those who remember ), a space station and a couple of new effects.

For more information on Infinity, check the following link:

<http://www.infinity-universe.com>

Slightly Off-Topic:

You may wonder why we now report about other space sims than Freelancer.

It's simple: We want to stay in touch with recent developments in the space sim genre, while we dont really want to cover any specific game. We are still mainly a Freelancer site, meaning we will only cover other games in the news section. There also wont be new game-specific forums, instead there now is a new Other Games subforum in the Off Topic category.

We hope to make the site a little more interesting by reporting about new and upcoming space sims, while not losing our focus on Freelancer.